

Welcome! My name is Werner Bachmann. Nice to have you here – I am very happy about it.

Because, as an 81-year-old initiator, I had difficulties learning the Internet programming language “HTML”, I had to switch to a simpler solution, namely “PDF”. There is a small change in use: the normal scrolling method on the right edge of the screen usually does not work, or only works occasionally. Instead, scroll with your mouse, or with the mouse wheel, which must be in the text field. Due to the system, inappropriate separators were formed within a few words. Sorry!

If you click a link, a new window always opens in the browser in which the background can be read. When you have read enough, close the new active window in the browser and you are back at the original location.
